Korean War vets in hall of fame

TWO FILIPINO officers who fought in the Korean War were inducted recently into the US Army Officer Candidate School (OCS) Hall of Fame.

Brig. Gen. Bienvenido Castro (ret.) and the late Brig. Gen. Vicente Evidente were the first Filipinos so honored by the US Army. The OCS Hall of Fame recognizes leadership excellence in both military and civilian service. Induction in the hall is the highest honor bestowed on an OCS graduate.

Castro served with the 20th Battalion Combat Team (BCT) of the Philippine Expeditionary Force to Korea (Peftok). Evidente fought with the 10th BCT. Both were second lieutenants during the Korean War (1950-53).

ROTC graduates, Castro and Evidente were selected to attend the OCS at Fort Riley, Kansas, as members of Class 18-49. After OCS graduation, both fought in the campaign against the Hukbalahap that was attempting to overthrow the Philippine government.

The induction took place at Fort Benning, Georgia, the US Army's infantry training center and site of the OCS Hall of Fame.

The dangers of mixing business with pleasure

I'm a third-year engineering student working part-time as a bartender in one of the coolest clubs in Makati. I am also having an affair with my lady boss-owner who is married and has children. We have been intimate for almost a year now but for some strange reason, she told me recently she wanted out. She said, "Ayoko na ng gulo." And that her high stature in society is being compromised, not to mention her marriage to a powerful man (who can even have me killed!). Because of this, even our professional relationship is strained. I dread the day she would ask me to leave the bar. Problem is, I am not ready to give up all the "perks". She has supported me for so long I don't think I can go on without her. Plus, I can't be without a job as I am still paying for my own tuition. I don't know if I can get a job elsewhere given my limited skills and knowledge. I really fear losing my job and her! What should I do? Need your advice fast!

In any workplace, mixing business with pleasure can cause conflict not only between the two people involved but also among the employees. Any normal relationship is always subject to different kinds of pressure, all the more a professional one. Such liaisons put you in the midst of gossip, envy, and "politicking".

It is indeed unavoidable to feel attraction towards your employer especially when she reciprocates the feeling.

PEOPLE & PROFESSIONS

By Karina Y.

However, the decision to get emotionally and/or physically involved is still up to you.

And because your boss is married, your relationship was all the more doomed from the very beginning. Let's face it, you are committing adultery and now that she is planning to put a stop to this illicit affair, you must respect her decision.

This would be hard on you especially as you appear to be so dependent on her. But you have to learn to stand on your own. Surely you have skills yet untapped that, if developed, will help you sustain your studies and eventually, secure your future.

However harsh this may sound, kill the relationship now before it gets out of hand. Nothing good will come out of it. You're still young after all, and seemingly full of potential to succeed. Don't waste your time in futile endeavors. Look for another job and perhaps another girlfriend who's single, unattached and not your boss!

Turmoil in Uzbek town leaves 200 dead

ANDJAN, Uzbekistan—Residents in the Uzbek city of Andjan said Saturday they had seen as many as 200 people killed in a crackdown by security forces against armed rebels and crowds of protesters.

"I have seen 200 bodies. It's a sad one," Abdul-Aziz Guseinov said.

Another resident, who only gave his first name, Bahodir, claimed to have seen more than 200 bodies near the mayor's office. "Everything is covered in blood," he said.

The reports could not be independently confirmed and access to the main hospital was blocked by armed guards.

Rebels' tactics gave the local of an Uzbek human rights group, as saying that the rebels' tactics had killed more than 200 people in the city, saying they could not reach the city's center, the town is the seat of the Andjan Valley, one of a border of Muslim countries by the government.

The protesters, some of them rolling for long-serving President Islam Karimov to lead more than 200 people gathered in the center of Andjan on Saturday, a day after rebels fired on protesters and rebels, killing dozens, a press spokesman said.

The violence in Uzbekistan follows unrest in neighboring Kyrgyzstan where ethnic tensions—which started in the town of Osh just across the border from Andjan—led to the ousting of President Askar Akayev, who fled to Moscow.

In the past 19 months, there have also been "Muslims everywhere" in two other ex-Soviet republics, Ukraine and Georgia, both of which ousted Western-leaning leaders.

THE PROCLAMATION of the First Philippine Constitution at Pasig on Jan. 25, 1899 in Malolos, Bulacan was more than enough reason for feasting, says Des Rosanna, book author, theater and film director and production designer.

"The island that used to be mostly 'sarung' (indian) and 'sila' (first nation) ... is where freedom is all of Asia. It was championed before the world war region, first democracy with its own government, its own flag and its own national anthem," Rosanna says.

As a way of remembering past & historic moments, they have been declared as Filipino Heritage Month. In observance of the celebration, the Executive Committee, Manila Peninsula and Makara Oriental Manila are holding food festival.

"The opening idea of Filipino Heritage Month was held last year, but it was not able to showcase a heritage cuisine festival," says Rosanna, who did last year's production design for the Department of Tourism and now for Makara Oriental Manila. "The heritage is what it is already part of I thought of creating different events based on Philippine history which will be remembered during 'Feasting: A Heritage of Cuisine,' which will

Ano ba talaga, Kuya?

Broadcaster or a writer

Actually, you can be both.

This is no joke. At the Manila Times School of Journalism, we take the opportunity to teach writers and the broadcast. We teach them how to write the professional journalist and speak English with an American accent.

The Manila Times School of Journalism has recently established by a company from Manila (Manila) to teach English grammar and pronunciation of English, interviewing, high intermediate and advanced levels.

The grammar and pronunciation program (2000) will be held and writing programs. Both are complementary, academically grounded and interactive. The students will be the students and the company will be the company. The students will be the students and the company will be the company.

You want to be a writer who speaks like a broadcaster? Or a broadcaster who writes like a professional journalist?
